The Law Society of Upper Canada and ARCH Disability Law Centre, in collaboration with the Ethno-racial People with Disabilities Coalition of Ontario (ERDCO) and its community partners are pleased to present a symposium on parenting with a disability and the legal system.

Legal services providers will benefit from this unique opportunity to learn and gain a better understanding of the legal needs of parents who have disabilities, and the challenges they face in the legal system when their disability intersects with issues of race, culture, faith, and economic and family status.

Parents with disabilities, allies and disability consumer and service organizations will enhance their understanding of the legal system, their rights, and what can be done to increase access to justice.

The participation of judges, lawyers, legal professionals, child advocates, child protection workers, social workers, disability advocates and parents with disabilities and their allies are welcome. The symposium will feature keynote speakers and panellists from diverse backgrounds and experiences.

For more information, please contact the Equity Initiatives Department at the Law Society of Upper Canada at 416-947-3300
